ADDENDUM TO “AN INDEXED CATALOGUE OF PUBLICATIONS ON MOLLUSCAN TYPE SPECIMENS” (1992)

Alan R. Kabat<sup>1</sup>
and
Kenneth J. Boss<sup>2</sup>

ABSTRACT. Our 1992 paper on malacological type publications (Occasional Papers on Mollusks, 5(69): 157-336) catalogued over 1,150 papers on this subject. Inevitably, several overlooked publications have come to light, along with numerous subsequently published papers of relevance. This Addendum catalogues almost 125 publications. The format of our 1992 publication is followed. A supplement at the end contains various emendations to that work, primarily for certain museum addresses.

ELECTRONIC TYPE CATALOGUES

Commencing in 1993, several natural history museums have placed catalogues of their type specimens online as an electronic computer database accessible through "GOPHER" or the World Wide Web ("WWW") on the Internet. Such catalogues can be searched by taxonomic group, author, locality, geological age or formation (for fossils) and various other categories. They have the advantage (over printed versions) of being cheaper to issue, and can be readily updated. However, they are only available to researchers with electronic access, and should be supplemented by an archival printed copy at the host institution.

Online catalogues containing molluscan types, with their WWW and GOPHER addresses, are listed below. Please note that these addresses are subject to change.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The following colleagues kindly informed us of various overlooked publications: George L. Kennedy, Hermann L. Strack, Anders Warén and the late Walter E. Sage. Dai Herbert, Paula Mikkelsen and M.G. Harasewych informed us of their forthcoming publications. Horst Ewert (Botschaft der Bundesrepublik Deutschland, Washington D.C.) supplied us with the new five-digit postal codes for the German museums.

Supplement to 1992 paper.

Three papers which were "in press" at the time of our 1992 catalogue were subsequently published. We list here further bibliographical data; please make the following emendations to the bibliography of Kabat and Boss (1992):

- Kabat and Finet (1992) -- pagination: 223-253.
Kohn (1992) -- actual title: "A chronological taxonomy of Conus, 1758-1840" -- pagination: x + 315 pages, 26
plates.
Schiøtte and Warén (1992) -- add: 35: 1-34.
